DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. The indicated allowability of claim 21 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) . Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 3, 4, 5, 7, 18, 21, 22, 23, 25, 26, 27, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Strausser (6192909) in view of Welker (4161924). Strausser shows a shelter capable of housing a pet comprising a rectangular lower frame including removable legs which rest on a supporting surface to support the frame on that supporting surface, wherein at least one leg includes a foot portion (5) having a tab extending from the foot portion of the at least one leg; air permeable, nylon mesh fabric (21) attached to the lower frame to form a pet supporting floor; a preshaped substantially rigid and shape retaining upper frame cooperable with the lower frame and removable with respect thereto to define a space above the pet supporting floor; a cover that fits removably over the upper frame to create an enclosure over the pet supporting floor which includes a vent and a removable flap; and an opening (14) in the cover where a pet can enter and leave the pet house; wherein the lower frame is substantially rectangular and includes four removable legs (4); wherein the storage compartment (33) forms a pad over the supporting floor that is capable of providing insulation; and wherein the lower frame and fabric form a cot when the upper frame is removed. Although the fabric is mesh material it is not disclosed as PVC coated polyester, mesh, polyester, and nylon materials are well known, and it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the fabric of a PVC coated polyester mesh material for durability and since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Strausser, however, does not show with a hole therein through which a stake can be positioned for staking the at least one leg to the supporting surface. Welker teaches a shelter having legs (40) with feet portions (45) with extending tabs with holes therein through which stake (130) pass for staking the legs to the support surface. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide that the feet portion of the Strausser shelter have holes therein to accommodate stakes as taught by Welker in order to secure or anchor the housing to the ground.

4. Claims 24, 29 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Strausser in view of Welker as applied to claim 21 above, and further in view of Ipsen, Jr. (3848279). Although Strausser discloses a cover supported on upper and lower frames, it is not disclosed that the cover includes fastener portions which mate the upper and lower frames with one another. Ipsen, Jr. shows a shelter having upper and lower frame covers which mate via snaps (44). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide means of fastening the upper and lower frame covers to one another to provide a more secure barrier around the periphery of the structure.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 8-12, 14-17, 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
